ABOUT THE PROGRAM

Earn a career as an operating room professional and work alongside surgeons, nurses, and anesthesia providers as you prepare the operating room environment and facilitate surgical procedures in a variety of specialties. Surgical technologists are responsible for maintaining sterility, counting instruments and supplies, passing instruments, preparing equipment and assisting in surgery. Accreditation: Both CBC and the Surgical Technology program are independently accredited. CBC is accredited through the premier regional accrediting body, Northwest Commission on Colleges and Universities.

Columbia Basin College Surgical Technology degree program is nationally accredited by the Commission on Accreditation of Allied Health Education Programs (CAAHEP). To communicate with CAAHEP or verify accreditation status, please contact: 9355 113th St. N, #7709, Seminole, FL 33775. (727) 210-2350.

Graduates of the Surgical Technology program are provided a two-year Associate in Applied Science (AAS) degree in Surgical Technology. Graduates of the AAS degree in Surgical Technology are eligible for national board certification through the National Board of Surgical Technology and Surgical Assisting.

OUT OF CLASS TO DO'S

As part of the admission requirements for Health Science programs, applicants must successfully pass a criminal background check and drug screen prior to working with patients in clinical areas. The background check and drug screen are paid by the student and administered through a third party company, CastleBranch. In addition to the background check required by CBC, each clinical facility reserves the right to conduct its own criminal background check prior to allowing a student to enter its health care facilities for clinical participation.

Certain criminal convictions, pending charges, or negative actions may automatically disqualify a person from having unsupervised access to vulnerable adults, juveniles and children. Clinical facilities reserve the right to accept or decline a student's placement in its facility.
